

Executive Coaching for Life Science Leadership

With Nancy L. Parenteau, Ph.D.

Who it is for:

Decision-makers in small to medium-sized life science companies, concept to post-market, public and private; C-suite, Senior Vice Presidents, Executive Directors, and those with a similar level of responsibility.

My commitment to you:

A passion for empowering you to reach your objectives, commitment to listening, frank discussion, honest advice, fully using what I've learned from my own concept to post-market experience and consulting, with some tough love, if needed. I will be there to support you as you act, helping you become the best version of yourself as the rainmaker you want to be, and that your team deserves. I will help you develop a fierce competitive advantage through your leadership.

What sets this Executive Coaching apart:

It will be how to best use money to achieve maximum operational effectiveness and create maximum value that attracts quality investors.

It will result in action plans developed with a fellow life science leader to address your specific needs as a life science leader.

We'll take a deep dive into leadership principles looking at what we can draw from them to address specific concerns in a life science company, with a focus on action.

From self-leadership, vision, strategy, team, to results and innovation, all six are vital in successful life science, so while we might focus on certain areas for your situation, there will be no stone left unturned.

It will not be results to shelve for a rainy day.

We'll develop change-inducing actions that stick to prevent those rainy days.

With special tools: Master Classes on leadership practices gleaned from the best in leadership research that we'll tap into as needed to assess, facilitate discussion, and create action items.

Minimum time commitment for the comprehensive program:

6 months, weekly virtual meetings, some self-study, and a commitment to practice!
Agreement for additional one-on-one time and/or in-person meetings are based on individual needs and established separately.
